

Blog Submission Directions & Rubric:

You will have a required number of blogs to respond to for each nine-week grading period. Blogs are posted on our class Weebly on the Blog page under Honors World History. You are required to read the assigned prompt and add a comment that follows the requirements listed in the prompt. Due dates for each unit are listed on the “Blog” sub-tab of our LiveBinder. Each blog you respond to will be graded according to the rubric below.

GRADED ELEMENT:	3	2	1
TIMELINESS	Response was posted on time.	Response was posted one day late.	Response was posted more than one day late.
ORGANIZED THOUGHT	Student's train of thought was presented logically.	Student's train of thought veered off topic once.	Student's train of thought veered off topic more than once.
USE OF SPECIFIC SUPPORTING DETAILS	Student used MORE than the required number of correct details/examples required by prompt	Student used the required number of correct details/examples required by prompt.	Student did not use enough details/examples and/or those used were not correct.
MECHANICS	No spelling or grammar issues.	One spelling or grammar issue.	More than one spelling or grammar issue.
SOURCE CITATIONS	Student's work was completely original or correct citations were used for any need picture, quote, or information from elsewhere. (MLA)	Student's work was completely original. Citations were present but at least once were not correct used for any need picture, quote, or information from elsewhere. (MLA)	Student's work was not original or more than one correct citations was missing were used for any need picture, quote, or information from elsewhere. (MLA)

Total pts. earned _____ out of 15 pts. possible = _____